1st VISAYAN CONFERENCE ON MINING AND THE ECOLOGY

Visayan People's Declaration On Mining and the Ecology

Scrap the Philippine Mining Act of 1995!
Enact the Philippine Mineral Resources Act of 2012!

WE, the PARTICIPANTS to the 1st Visayan Conference on Mining and Ecology, representing more than 150 various organizations of farmers, indigenous people communities, women, urban poor, workers, service workers, students, professionals, the church, media, and business from the many islands of Visayas, conscious of our right to a balanced and healthy ecology in the spirit of precautionary principle and inter-generational responsibility are deeply concerned.

Our economy is based on agriculture, forestry, fishery- both fresh water and marine- and expanding tourism, which all require adequate and unpolluted sources of water. Because of this, we are deeply concerned that there is an onslaught of commercial mining applications and operations in the region, all driven by profit and greed.

AGRICULTURE

Panay is the Philippines' second biggest rice producer. Add to this the fact that the mangoes of Guimaras have earned international distinction due to its unique taste and texture. As such, damage to our farmlands will have huge adverse effect not only to the people of Panay but, more importantly, to the FOOD SECURITY of the entire country!

FORESTRY

Mining operations in the Visayas region are causing large scale destruction of our forests, which is affecting our rivers, streams, and aquifers, carrying with them pollution, all which flow into the sea thus posing an extremely grave threat to our marine resources and to the livelihood of people belonging to our coastal communities.

FISHERY

Our shallow seas are vital fishing and breeding grounds, which are easily damaged by pollution from the mines. The Visayan Sea is one of the richest areas in terms of marine resources. This is why Estancia has been recognized as the Alaska of the Philippines which is also why Roxas City is known to be the country's Seafood Capital. Several areas in the region such as the Tanon Strait, Danajon Double Barrier Reef, Sibuyan Sea, and Guisaw protected seascape and landscape among others, are also rich in marine resources.

TOURISM

The Visayan region is home to some of the world's finest tourism destinations. In fact, Boracay Island has been distinguished as the world's second best beach, and Asia's No.1 overall for the second straight year.

INDIGENOUS PEOPLE

Mining companies, in collusion with government institutions and forces, wittingly or unwittingly, have committed human rights violations, dividing and exploiting and displacing indigenous people from their ancestral domains. We claim our right to clean sources of water, clean air and sustainable livelihood. Mining is putting all these under threat.

We hereby call for:

A moratorium not only in the processing and approval of mining applications, but in all large-scale mining projects and operations until an alternative policy on exploration, development, and use of mineral resources, that is pro-Filipino, pro-people, pro-environment, and pro-food has been enacted and developed.

The scrapping of the Philippine Mining Act of 1995 and the Mining Revitalization Program and the enactment of the Philippine Mineral Resources Act is our urgent call. We demand that the agricultural, forestry and fishery resources of the Visayan Region be conserved for generations to come!

God has blessed the Visayan Region with rich natural resources, and we the Visayan People will not allow these resources to be ravaged by selfishness, greed and political machinations.

Mr. President, hear our plea. We are making a stand for our people. The time is now.

APPROVED BY the participants to the 1st Visayan Conference on Mining and the Ecology, this 25th day of February 2012, at the Rose Memorial Auditorium, Central Philippine University, Jaro, Iloilo City

Hot curry coming!

At Bangkok's Issaya Siamese Club we not only savored remarkable, mouth-watering modern Thai dishes but also had the pleasure of meeting the owner, chef Ian Kittichai, who competed in the American TV series Iron Chef.

Ayala Malls 360

Taking shopping, dining and entertain to a whole new interactive level

Online or offline? Physical or virtual? Actual or digital?

Why choose, when you can enjoy both, at the same time?

At Ayala Malls, we are pushing the boundaries of traditional mall-going experience by bringing our innovative lifestyle destinations into the digital landscape.

Through Ayala Malls 360, we are offering new platforms where the actual mall experience is boosted up by greater digital interactivity and vice versa. Now, you can access mall information anytime, anywhere.

Be the first to know about the hottest merchant deals, updated cinema schedules, and latest mall updates, so you can plan your mall visit early. Navigate through your favorite Ayala Mall with ease by consulting Ayala Malls 360's mall maps and store locator.

The Ayala Malls are making it possible for our customers' sophisticated tastes and fast-moving lifestyles to reach a convergence point. With the help of smartphones, tablets, and laptops, as well as the continuing popularity of social networking sites and web-based groups offering bargains and deals, we are creatively engaging with our customers' shopping, dining, entertainment and lifestyle wants and needs.

All you have to do is "Like" us on Facebook, "follow" us on Twitter, download the Ayala Malls 360 mobile app on iTunes, log on to the revamped website www.ayalamalls.com.ph, and sign up with www.A-Deals.com, our exciting new website for the coolest deals and freebies.

You can also stay connected with other Ayala Mall goers, and share your experiences with others online. It is now possible to stay connected with us 24/7. And with Ayala Malls 360, staying connected with us—whether offline or online, actual or digital—can be vastly enjoyable and endlessly rewarding.

Clearly, this is the future of the Ayala Malls experience.

To know more about Ayala Malls 360, drop by Fashion Walk at Greenbelt 5 on March 8, 2011 for the digital launch. Have a first-hand encounter with Ayala Malls 360 through the integrated interactive hub while grooving to the beats of Ol' Big Daddy and The Bloom Brothers. You also get a chance to win cool prizes simply by downloading the Ayala Malls iPhone app, liking Ayala Malls on Facebook, following Ayala Malls on Twitter and hashtagging #Ayala Malls360 on Twitter.

Catch the launch of Ayala Malls 360 on March 8, 7PM at Greenbelt 5 with a special musical mash-up performance of The Bloom Brothers and Ol' Big Daddy.
